Puerto Rican Folkloric Dance Company held its fifteenth anniversary celebration on Sunday at the Puerto Rican Folkloric Dance and Cultural Center. Sofia Crook, 7, left and Jessenia Shiguango, 8, dance with Brea Rosa, 22 months. The celebration included a Bombazo, a Bomba dance for anyone who wanted to join.
Puerto Rican Folkloric Dance Company
Sunday, September 9, 2012 (updated on 9/09/2012 at 11:30 p.m.)

From left, Jessenia Shiguango, Andrea Mellette and Mia Cazares dance during the celebration which included a Bombazo, a Bomba dance for anyone who wanted to join.
Yolanda Maisonet dances for the drummers. They are from left C.J. Menge, Madrile Wilson and William Maynard. The celebration included a Bombazo, a Bomba dance for anyone who wanted to join.
Jessenia Shiguango, 8 dances during the celebration which included a Bombazo, a Bomba dance for anyone who wanted to join.
Puerto Rican Folkloric Dance Company

Sunday, September 9, 2012 (updated on 9/09/2012 at 11:30 p.m.)

Andrea Mellette shows her stuff. The celebration included a Bombazo, a Bomba dance for anyone who wanted to join.

(Laura Skelding/American-Statesman)